Respect Edition

"The gift of respect is the most desired, the least given, the greatest hope of humanity."

Welcome

For this half term our theme was respect! On our Character Education afternoon we made posters about respect which you can see on the ground floor corridor. They were entered in a competition, so you might notice one on Kensal Road in the new year. School council also organised a Children in Need walk to raise money for the cause our total was a whopping £500. We have been talking a lot about respect, like respecting our property, ourselves, each other and the planet. Some of us have been singing about it too in class and in choir. Read this newsletter to hear more about what we have been learning about respect. (School Council)

Year 5

We learnt about respect this term. It is important because respect helps the world go round and for everyone to get along with each other. If there was no respect, everything would fall apart and we would all throw insults at people who are different. Respect is important because nobody would want to leave their house if they know they live in a disrespectful world. - Joanne

"If you want to be respected, then be respectful." – Nathaniel

"Respect is free, so give it in abundance." – Miss Harris
